The Charleston County Bar Association holds its annual meeting and installation of officers

CHARLESTON, SC – David W. Wolf of Wolf & Wolf, LLC, was installed as the 2020-2021 president of the Charleston County Bar Association on Feb. 27, along with three other officers and ten members of the executive committee. The installation ceremony was held at the CCBA’s annual meeting at the Francis Marion Hotel.

During his tenure as president, Mr. Wolf plans on continuing the priorities of education, equality, and engagement within the community. “In addition to offering more than forty hours of continuing legal education seminars for its members, the Charleston County Bar Association will continue sponsoring and participating in Cocky’s Reading Express, an event that promotes literacy in local elementary schools while educating students about the legal profession,” said Wolf. “Additionally, we will continue supporting The Charleston Forum, an organization co-founded by the CCBA which strives to provide a dialogue that moves the conversation on race forward across many different topics.”

Mr. Wolf obtained his undergraduate degree from Clemson University and his MBA & JD from the University of South Carolina. He focuses his practice on general business law, criminal defense and representation of professionals before licensing boards or commissions.

The incoming Charleston County Bar Association officers and members of the executive committee for 2020-2021 are:
